Uneasy Lies

the Head That Wears a Crown

The headline quotation is from Henry IV, and it's brought to mind by something that was said yesterday in New York.

Bertrand Russell, English philosopher, mathematician and Nobel prize winner, got off the boat and told reporters that nowadays he considers Great Britain to be a financial and military "satellite" of the United States.

Russell's statement is guaranteed to give us pause. Being front guy in world affairs is disquieting, dangerous, and costly.

For many centuries it was the British lion that roared up and down the highways and byways of the world, feared, distrusted, and envied. Among those who feared, distrusted, and envied their English-speaking cousins were Americans. We talked about British imperialism, helped every little country that wanted a constitution and elections like ours, and we were eager to reform every part of the world that differed from our own. But now the British lion is old and hoarse and can't roar as of old.

Now the American eagle is where the British lion used to be. And every time our eagle screams the rest of the world is afraid, distrustful, and envious.

This time the envious ones can't even speak English.

The Russians talk of American imperialism, help every little country that thinks it wants a government setup like theirs, and are eager to reform every part of the world that differs from their own.

Crazy people! I don't know about that. We used to talk pretty much the way Russia talks now — until Britain abdicated and gave us the hot crown.

Tempers Flare in Telephone Walkout

Philadelphia, Nov. 16 — (AP) — The nationwide telephone strike, marked by flaring tempers on the picket line and a legal tug-of-war over injunctions — entered the second week today with no immediate prospect of peace.

The Bell Telephone company went to court seeking an injunction that would prevent picketing of the company's exchanges in Philadelphia, scene of two picket lines battles in the last two days.

The National Labor Relations board of Western Electric company employees was called by the CIO-Communications Workers union in 44 states last Thursday. Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania and other subsidiaries of the parent American Telephone & Telegraph company are not directly involved in the strike.

In the Philadelphia flareup yesterday, pickets failed for the second consecutive day to prevent non-striking Bell workers from reporting for work. Fists flew as police escorted non-striking workers to their jobs.

Another clash occurred at Washington where a line foreman received a black eye in a battle between pickets and officials of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company. Two pickets were questioned by police and later released.

And in New York, an A. T. & T. stockholders meeting was conducted against a backdrop of boos and catcalls. The meeting was attended by a number of employee-stockholders.

The Bell injunction request here followed similar action in seven other states. Injunctions against picketing were granted in Louisiana, Virginia, Kentucky and Wisconsin but were refused in Nebraska and Georgia. Action is pending in New Jersey.

In Kentucky, authorities tried unsuccessfully to serve the injunction papers banning picketing of Southern Bell offices. Striking union officials dodged the order servers and a union spokesman said "until the papers are served, the restraining order is ineffective."

The Wisconsin injunction — issued at Milwaukee by Circuit Court Judge Walter Schinz — restrains Western Electric workers from picketing the offices of the Wisconsin Telephone company. The order was granted at the request of the state's employment relations board.

District Judge James M. Patton at Omaha refused to grant an injunction banning picketing of the Northwestern Bell facilities. He contended Nebraska law already forbids picketing of public utilities.

4-H Winners Banqueted by Chain Store

Congressman Oren Harris of the Seventh Arkansas District addressing the top 4-H club boys and girls of Hempstead county here Wednesday night recalled that he was an ex-4-Her himself, and won a corn-growing contest in his old home community of Belton, north Hempstead county, by producing 109 bushels of corn on a single acre.

The occasion was the fifth annual banquet tendered 4-H club contest winners in Hempstead county by the Hope Chain Store Council. It came off in Hotel Barlow's club dining room, with A. E. Stonequist, Hope Chain Store Council chairman, as toastmaster. Congressman Harris was introduced by former U. S. Senator Lloyd Spencer, Hope Banker.

Burrell Joe Smittle, 16, of Patmos Rt. 1, president of the Hempstead County 4-H Club Council, followed Mr. Stonequist as toastmaster and invocation was by J. I. Liebong, secretary-manager of Hope Chamber of Commerce.

Emma Louise Downs, of Columbus, Southwestern district vice-president of the Arkansas 4-H Club Council, made the response to Mr. Stonequist's address of welcome. The 4-H club members were introduced to the banquet audience by County Agent Oliver L. Adams and Home Demonstration Agent Lorraine Blackwood.

Congressman Harris made an inspirational address on the opportunity that awaits the farm youth of America, engaged in free agricultural in a land of democratic tradition.

The congressman said it was an honor to be invited to speak to 4-H club members, and to do so last night in Hope he had returned by one day his scheduled return to Washington.

There was a good deal of banter between Congressman Harris and Mr. Spencer and Ury McKenzie, chairman of the county Agricultural Planning Committee — but it had to do with Hope-Frescott football relations back in the old days. Otherwise the program was devoted to agriculture and the local achievements of youth on the land.

The program opened with a pastoral song by the 4-Hers, accompanied on the piano by Kay Kent, of Patmos Rt. 1, and was closed by the reciting of the 4-H pledge.

4-H Club Members
4-H club members present at the banquet were:

Burrell Joe Smittle, Patmos Rt. 1; Richard Lynn Hunt, Hope Rt. 1; Donald Ray Brown, Hope Rt. 1; J. B. Ellen III, Hope Rt. 1; Macdon Warren, Patmos Rt. 1; James Hutson, Nashville Rt. 1; James Robert Fuller, Hope Rt. 2.

Travis England, Hope Rt. 2; James Smith, Hope Rt. 4; Miria Ann Brown, Hope Rt. 1; Thomas Gibson, Patmos Rt. 1; Emma Louise Downs, Columbus; Sara Jane McGee, Patmos Rt. 1; Helen Kent, Patmos Rt. 1.

Kay Kent, Patmos Rt. 1; Wilton Hurd, Hope Rt. 4; Dorothy Lee Hulsey, Washington Rt. 1.

Chain Store Council
Present for the host organization, Hope Chain Store Council, were the following:

Hays Munn, A. & P. Food Store; Milton Dillard, Scott Stores; Wesley Hart, Morgan & Lindsey Store; Jesse Reed, Kroger Company; Fred Robertson, Rephan's Department Store; A. B. Tollett and J. W. Adams, West Bros. Department Stores; A. E. Stonequist, J. C. Penny Company; and L. C. Baber of Little Rock, director of the South Central Region Chain Store Council.

Other Guests
Other guests, besides Congressman Harris and former Senator Spencer, were:

Moss Rowe, Washington Rt. 1, president of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau; J. I. Liebong, secretary-manager of Hope Chamber of Commerce; Syd McMath, Hope, county key banker; Alex. H. Washburn, editor & publisher of Hope Star; Bob Shivers, Hope, manager of the Third District Stock Show.

Dr. F. C. Crow, Hope, state senator; L. B. Tooley, general manager of Radio Station KXAR; Thurston Hulsey, Washington, state representative; R. E. Jackson, Hope, vocational teacher Hope High School; Ury McKenzie, Hope, chairman county Agricultural Planning Committee; and Mrs. B. J. Warnken, president Home Demonstration Club County Council, and Mr. Warnken, Blevins Rt. 1.

Timber Is Important State Crop

Timber is Arkansas' most important crop, a group of sixty conservationists at Conway, Arkansas, were told today by Jim Case, of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Case pointed out that forests occupy more than 60 per cent of our total land area and provide employment in the woods and mills for 56,000 people yearly. This is more than 65 per cent of the State's labor payroll, and there are definite indications of an increase with improved management.

Most crops need planting, protection, and proper harvesting, it was pointed out, and timber is no exception. Nature takes care of the major part of planting where seed trees are present, yet there are several thousand idle acres, on which hand planted trees will produce a profitable crop. Interplanting was stressed as a cheap and effective method of converting stands of low-grade hardwood to more desirable pine.

Protection from fire and the control of grazing animals are essential to tree crops as well as other crops.

Proper harvesting consists of leaving the better trees spaced at the proper distance apart to grow the greatest amount of high quality wood products. The best trees are not only straight and sound, but have a good healthy crown of needles or leaves, since the leaves grow.

A well-managed forest should produce the food for the trees to be cut selectively at definite intervals — from five years in South Arkansas, up to ten years in North Arkansas between cuttings. Many South Arkansas landowners have divided their woodlands into five fields or cutting areas in order to provide for a yearly harvest of a tree crop.

I won't insist on a first class stateroom in a luxury liner.

I have my eye on a ragtag, bottled fleet, put together with odds and ends of coastal craft, that is performing an heroic chore in supplying allied troops.

It is the only fleet commanded by an army captain.

That doesn't stop me. As a World War II marine, I'm used to hardships.

The captain, Borden T. Wright, Oakland, Calif., has promised me a berth on his good ship "Flying Cloud."

It is not exactly the most luxurious vessel in the captain's 31-ship fleet, but its wooden hull is believed to be reasonably seaworthy.

Besides, it has a capacity of at least six tons — not to mention a galley perfectly adequate for preparing "C" rations.

Vessels of Wright's fleet range from two to 40 tons. They are powered by gasoline or diesel engines, except for one driven by charcoal.

"In convoy," Wright said proudly, "we expect they will make five knots, and you, know, they've never been bothered by submarines or airplanes."

The ship I like is a honey about 38 feet long and maybe 14 in beam, and has one anchor.

Some of this wooden fleet is manned by iron men is armed with 37-mm. anti-tank guns and assorted machineguns. What will happen if the guns ever are fired is problematical. But then, I can swim.

Wright, a Korean military advisor group (KMAC) supply officer, began liberating his fleet and manning it with volunteers way back in mid-September, at Pohang on Korea's southeast coast.

Ships of his independent fleet draw from two to six feet, fully draw from two to six feet, fully draw from two to six feet.

Placing Library Tax on the Ballot Ruled an Error — Nobody Knows How It Got There

Apparently nobody knows how it got on, and everybody agrees it shouldn't have — that's the general opinion about the one-mill library tax that appeared on the Hempstead ballot in the general election.

First they asked an opinion from the State's labor payroll, and then they put it on the ballot.

But the library will get its tax money with which to operate, and you can't find anyone unhappy about it — although the vote went against the measure.

The library people and most of the public didn't know until they saw the ballot that the issue was to be voted on. When the count was made the library board got busy.

First they asked an opinion from Prosecuting Attorney James H. Pilkinton.

Mr. Pilkinton ruled that the one-mill tax is a continuing tax and that it isn't required to be voted on at each general election. A petition with the names of 100 qualified voters must be filed before it can "properly" be placed on the ballot.

A check revealed no such petition had been filed. Library officials say Mr. Pilkinton's opinion has been verified verbally by Attorney General Lee Murry.

All of which means the vote against the measure will be disregarded and the one-mill tax will go to the library as it has the past two years.

So far there has been no objection. Everyone seemed to be sorry about the whole thing and believed the tax was a casualty of the trend to vote against everything. Some voters thought it was an additional one-mill tax and applied the scratch.

How did it get on the ballot? Nobody knows — or if they do they aren't admitting it.

Friday Is Last Day of Deer Season

Tomorrow is the last day of the deer season in Hempstead and some sources believe the toll will be around 30 by the deadline. Yesterday Dorsey Collins, Sr., brought down a 2 point buck in Bois d'Arc bottoms which weighed about 105 pounds.

Wes Nienmeyer also killed his first buck on a 8-pointer, in the Red Lake sector.

Hunters were again cautioned to report their kill immediately to Game Warden Earl Barham. Mr. Barham may be contacted through the State Police Radio Station.

New Device Can Detect Atomic Radiation

Washington, Nov. 16 (AP) — The army, displaying a pocket-sized device to show quickly whether a man has been hit by much atomic radiation, said yesterday that troops will eventually be equipped with them.

Called a "dosimeter," the device is a flat metal box with a chain designed to be worn around a soldier's neck. The army said it can be mass produced for under $1.

It contains a small film packet which, developing itself on exposure to light, changes color if it has been subjected to atomic gamma rays. The degree of radiation can be measured roughly by the whiteness of the film strip.

The device was developed by the Polaroid Corp., at Cambridge, Mass., under army signal corps sponsorship. An army spokesman said.

Funeral for Ex-Resident Here Friday

Funeral services for Charles V. Shirley, aged 27, native of Hempstead who died Monday at his home in Berkeley, Cal., will be held at Herndon-Cornelius chapel at 2:30 p.m. Friday by the Rev. S. A. Whitlow. Burial will be in Rose Hill cemetery.

He is survived by three brothers, Hobart D. Shirley and John W. Shirley of Hope, W. W. Shirley of Orange, Texas, two sisters, Mrs. Jess Parker of Prescott and Mrs. Earl Ray Montgomery of Hope.

Active pallbearers: John C. O. F. and Steve Lloyd, Charles Key, William Schooley and A. T. Jones, Jr.

Courthouse Offices Go on 40-Hour Week

Offices of the Hempstead County Courthouse are going on a 40-hour week starting Saturday, November 18, it was announced today in a proclamation issued by Judge C. Cook. This is a new statewide policy.

Hereafter all offices will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and will close all day Saturday.

However, the collectors office will remain open extra hours during the tax paying season and the sheriff's law enforcement office will be open at all times.

Marriages licenses will be issued at any time to couples. If the office is not open contact the county clerk or his deputy.

Search Started for Man Who Killed for Money

Chicago, Nov. 16 (AP) — Police said today a nation wide search is being made for a Trenton, N. J., man who reportedly told a pal he had been paid $900 for killing William J. Drury, a former police lieutenant.

Theman being hunted for questioning in connection with Drury's slaying was identified by police as Anthony Rotondo, 35.

Charles Di Umberto, 32, also of Trenton, an ex-convict and forger suspect, was reported by police to have told them that Rotondo had admitted to him that he killed Drury. Di Umberto, brought here on a subpoena issued by the Kefauver senate crime committee, was questioned yesterday by committed investigators.

Drury, 48, was assassinated by gunmen last Sept. 25 shortly before he was to testify before the committee on Chicago gang activities.

Chief of Detectives Andrew Altken and state's Attorney John S. Boyle, who were present when Di Umberto was questioned yesterday said they believed "he was telling the truth as far as he knew it."

They added, however, that Rotondo wasn't necessarily telling the truth.

Variety of Weather Over Nation

By The Associated Press

There was a variety of weather over the nation today, with the northeast quarter of the country getting the worst of the season's elements.

Strong winds, cold air and snow hit the middle part of the nation. A storm centered in northern Wisconsin and caused windy weather over wide areas of the midwest.

Snow fell in the upper Mississippi valley, Duluth, Minn., reported a 3-inch fall.

There were several rainy areas. One wet belt extended from Arkansas to the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes region. The fall at Little Rock, Ark., measured 2.13 inches.

Three Wrecks Investigated by Officers

Three highway accidents were investigated in the past 12 hours by state officers Guy Downing and Travis Ward.

The first occurred about 8 last night when an automobile driven by Henry Brandon of Hope Rt. 4, went out of control and crashed into another driven by L. M. Clark of Pine Bluff, on the Patmos road just off Highway 67. Neither were seriously hurt but both vehicles were damaged.

About the same time another automobile left the shoulder of the road and overturned 2 miles west on Highway 67, seriously injuring F. W. Tesche of Little Rock. The auto was practically demolished. Tesche was taken to a Texarkana hospital.

Early today just north of Prescott a car, driven by Cooper Brougher, III, of Louisville, Ky., crashed into a truck which had been stopped by a highway crew.

The truck was driven by O. C. Stow of Gurnee. Both vehicles were damaged but nobody was seriously hurt.

Official Calls His Agency 'Wasteful'

Little Rock, Nov. 16 (AP) — Public official yesterday publicly called the work of his agency "stupid, inefficient and wasteful," and recommended that no funds be allotted it.

A surprised Arkansas legislative council followed the "fund" recommendation after R. F. Milwee, member of the Arkansas state commission, appeared before it.

The council voted unanimously to reject the commission's proposed budget. The council, of course, may change its mind, but in any case final say-so lies with the 1951 legislature.

Milwee's heated remarks about the commission — creation of which was one of Governor McMath's 1949 legislative projects — brought into the open differences between Milwee and Commission Chairman C. P. Newton.

Newton sat impassively throughout Milwee's probably unprecedented tirade and at its conclusion said only:

"I want to point out that I haven't been heard, and I want to add I don't want to be heard. Don't worry; we'll take care of ourselves." He declined a chance to give the council his view 50 years of experience with state and county taxes. I've never seen such waste, inefficiency, stupid work and glaring errors as has been displayed by this commission in the past two years."

He said he had protested commission directive which said it would attempt to equalize Arkansas tax assessments at 20 per cent of actual value.

He said Newton issued the order without a commission meeting and that he (Milwee) had consistently opposed it and would continue to.

Law fixes the rate of property assessments at 50 per cent and the commission has no authority to change that rate, Milwee said.

Milwee recommended that the council reject the commission's proposed budget "if the commission is to act during the next two years as it has under its current procedures."

The council authorized a five-man committee to study work of the commission with a view to recommending to the 1951 legislature its possible abolition, additional authority to make it more effective or a return of its duties to the Arkansas public service commission.

The committee is composed of State Senator Clyde E. Byrd, El Dorado, chairman; Sen. Winifred Lake, DeQueen, and Reps. W. L. Ward of Lee county, Dewitt Post of Desha and Clinton Wade of Washington.

Allies Advance Meet Spotty Resistance

Seoul, Nov. 16 — (AP) — Allies forged ahead today all over the frigid 25-mile North Korean front toward the Manchurian border. Resistance was spotty.

Park-clad infantrymen of the U. S. 17th regiment knifed into the frost-covered Pusan area the farthest to within 30 miles of the Red Manchurian border. The 17th smashed five miles to the parallel against Red tanks, artillery and infantry.

It was the day's biggest gain in sharp contrast to the U. S. 8th Air Corps advance of a 30 mile front in the virtually unopposed. Tanks rose, but a heavy storm going rough. Gains ranged from four miles.

DOROTHY DIX Boy-Husband

Dear Miss Dix: I am 20 years old. Have been married nearly a year to a woman who is nearly six years older than I am and things are not going so good. It seems that my wife and I cannot agree on anything at all. My wife had a little, but I didn't have anything, not even a job, so she bought a little business for us. Everything went along all right until business began to fall off and my wife had to draw money from the bank to keep from losing the business. Then she started raising Cain with me as if I could help it. Do you think that her having to spend money on taking care of me is the trouble? And what is the best thing for me to do?

K.G.T.
Answer: Well, son, I should think the best thing for you to do would be to run back home to mama and wait until you grow up and get able to support a wife before you tackle matrimony again. May be your present wife will like you well enough to want to have you around when you are a man and not a kid. One of the reasons you and your wife can't agree is because there is too much disparity in your ages. Six years difference between a man and a woman doesn't matter if they are both in their thirties and their tastes and ideas are formed, but when the boy is just out of his teens and the woman is in her middle twenties, is a different matter.

She is Grown Up
A woman of 26 is as grown up as she will ever be. She is mature. But the boy of 20 is still a child. He is changing every day. He wants to play. He isn't ready to settle down. He is full of impractical plans and ideas, and he is bound to get on the nerves of a mature woman. Only a mother has the patience and understanding to endure the vagaries of an adolescent boy.

Then, son, it is a strange thing, but true, that there are very few happy marriages in which the woman is the purse-bearer. It is all right for the husband to be rich and the wife poor, but when the case is reversed and the woman has the money and the man has nothing, it is almost sure to cause

Framers Set to Work on Profits Tax

Washington, Nov. 16.—(P)—House tax framers, working under forced draft, pointed today toward a target of Dec. 1 as the date by which they expect to have an excess profits levy ready for house action.

After hearing Secretary of the Treasury Snyder outline administration suggestions for a skimming $4,000,000,000 from corporation earnings, the house ways and means committee voted on party lines yesterday to conclude hearings no later than next Wednesday.

With more than 200 individuals wanting to testify, this means many will get no chance to present their views orally, although they may present written statements for the record. The hearings continue today.

The hearing speed-up brought immediate charges of "gag" by "state mroller" from Republican committee members, who showed themselves cool to Snyder's proposal for a 75 per cent levy on excess corporations profits.

Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.), senior GOP member, accused the Democratic committee majority of being "not even interested in trying to write sound tax legislation."

By a straight party vote, the committee limited the hearings to one week and put a 15-minute limit on the appearance of individual witnesses. It also decreed that "where possible" no more than one witness should appear for a single industry although more than one could split the 15-minute maximum among them.

It added a further limitation by mulling out testimony on any alternative tax proposal. Some business groups have proposed alternatives to the excess profits tax.

Denouncing the committee's action, taken on a motion by Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn.), Reed declared: "To deny those on whom we must depend for production of our defense and civilian needs an opportunity to present their views on the least injurious form of tax is the rankest form of steamroller tactics and gag rule."

Other Republicans expressed similar views.

But Democratic committee members, spurred by a 17-page Truman's request for $4,000,000,000 revenue from abnormal corporation earnings, expected to have a bill ready for the house soon after Nov. 27, when congress is slated to reconvene.

Lists Close on Second Lion Essay Contest

El Dorado, Ark. — With a flood of entries in the final week, the second of a series of six monthly scholarship contests for Southern high school students came to a close last night. The third monthly contest is now open.

The contests, sponsored by the Lion Oil Scholarship Fund, have evoked widespread interest among Southern students, teachers and parents. Each contest features a $1,000 college scholarship, awarded for the best essay on a selected subject. Theme of the contest just closed was "Why a college education is important," while students entering the third contest will write on "Why I am glad I am an American."

Essays are judged by educational leaders at Southern universities and colleges. In addition to the $1,000 scholarship, second and third prizes of $100 and $50 are granted. Teachers approving the three prize-winning essays receive prizes totaling $250. Any boy or girl attending high school within the Lion Oil service station area is eligible to enter any or all of the contests.

Winners of the six monthly contest are automatically entered in competition for the Grand Prize, a three-year college scholarship worth $1,000. Thus the Grand Prize Winner will enjoy all four years at college on scholarships worth $4,000. The teacher who approves the Grand Prize essay will receive an additional $300.

"The future of the South lies with its boys and girls," said Colonel T. H. Barton, Chairman of the Board of Lion Oil Company. "We are eager to encourage the spirit of self-reliance and resourcefulness which has made the South great and will bring it to even finer achievements tomorrow. These scholarship contests are Lion Oil's token of faith in the sons and daughters of the South."

trouble. Somehow money and love do not seem to mix when a rich woman tries to cook up a romance with a poor boy. So my advice is to let your wife keep the money that is dearer to her than you are and for you to get a job and support yourself.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was engaged to a girl with whom I was desperately in love. Just before we were to have been married she met a stranger with whom she became infatuated at sight and whom she married three months later. I was terribly cut up and to spite the girl I married her best friend. Now after a year of marriage I am fed up. My wife is all that a man could ask for in a wife and she is crazy about me, but our life is a regular hell on earth, and she refuses to give me a divorce.

Don't you think a woman would have more pride than to stay with a man knowing that he loathes her? What do you think I should do?

Answer: You certainly are having to pay for marrying for revenge, but it seems to me the punishments more than fits the crime. The silliest and the craziest thing that anybody ever does is to rush into marriage with someone they don't care for because someone they love has married somebody else, but because you have committed this folly should not condemn you to a lifetime of misery with a woman you have come to hate, and who must be as unhappy as you are in a marriage that is a mess from start to finish.

I cannot understand why she wants to hold you against your will. She is just as much to blame for your spite marriage as you are and is as responsible for its consequences. She cannot be considered an ignorant victim because she knew that you were in love with another woman and did not care for her, and that you were marrying her out of pique. Hence she would not hold you to your bargain if she had much pride or self-respect, so under the circumstances I think you would be perfectly justified in leaving her even if she will not give you a divorce. One false step taken in anger should not ruin a whole life.

Dear Miss Dix: What is love? A.B.
Answer: Your correspondent sends this beautiful definition of love, and it was written by an old bachelor, none other than Saint Paul, in his letter to the Corinthians. It says: Love suffereth long and is kind. Love envieth not and vaunteth not itself. Is not puffed up. Love seeketh not its own and is not easily provoked. It thinketh no evil. It rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in truth. You can't better that definition of love. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

ment will not hesitate to impose price and wage controls if policy and fairness demand it.

"Do we need drastic surgery, such as general direct controls?" He asked. "We shall soon know, as we watch the national scene in terms of price and wage increases and especially as we observe a few test cases now under way in important fields."

He suggested that wage earners would accept "something less than they might gain by drastic means and understanding why this restraint is patriotic."

Bricker and Martin expressed their views in separate interviews.

By his reference to financial steps which may be used to control inflation, Bricker said he meant increased taxes and sale of government bonds, controls over credit an interest rates and reduction of non-essential government spending.

Korea to Back MacArthur's Charges

New York, Nov. 16 —(P)—A Korean back up Gen. MacArthur's charges rean spokesman expected to back up Gen. MacArthur's charges of Chinese Communist intervention when the United Nations security council meets this afternoon.

John M. Chang, permanent Korean representative here, is scheduled to speak in a council debate on an American-backed resolution ordering Chinese Communist withdrawal and assuring the Peiping government that U. N. troops will respect her Korean frontier. Other sponsors are Britain, France, Norway, Ecuador and Cuba.

On the eve of the council's meeting, Russia's Jacob A. Malik circulated a letter from the Chinese Reds charging that American aggression is responsible for the war and defending the right of Chinese "volunteers" to go to the aid of the North Koreans.

It is expected that Malik will read the letter into the council records and then demand that proceedings halt until a delegation from Peiping is present.

Word was received from Prague yesterday that a nine-man Chinese Red group has booked air passage for Nov. 23 and will arrive in New York the next morning.

Since this is a Friday it is doubtful if they can take part in council deliberations until the following Monday — the 27th. This is two months since the original invitation was extended for them to come here to take part in discussions of the Formosa problem and 19 days from the time they were asked to come to explain their actions in Korea.

The U. S. has insisted that the council proceed without waiting for the Chinese who, in any case, have served notice that they will discuss only their own charges of American aggression — not MacArthur's report that they themselves are fighting in Korea.

Seek to Break Rearmament Deadlock

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Nov. 16 —(A)— Another effort to break the German rearmament deadlock and get on with organization of a combined defense force for Western Europe is scheduled in London next month.

The North Atlantic military committee expects to get together about Dec. 4 with the North Atlantic council of foreign ministers' deputies, now in session there.

The military committee, composed of top ranking military officers of the North Atlantic treaty nations, and the council of deputies are seeking a German rearmament plan on which the U. S., France, and the other member nations can agree.

A deadlock between U. S. and French proposals for using Western Germans led the North Atlantic defense ministers last month to postpone further steps toward organizing Western Europe's defenses and appointing an American — expected to be Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — as their supreme commander.

The U. S. proposed the creation of German divisions. Its plan included guarantees that a German general staff would not be allowed to spring up, that German participation would not exceed 20 per cent, and that France's sovereignty would be protected fully.

France urged that the smallest possible German units be incorporated in a Western European army responsible to a Western European assembly. It also made its proposal conditional on acceptance of the Schuman plan to pool Western Europe's coal and iron resources. Representatives of France, Germany, Luxembourg, Holland, Belgium and Italy have been meeting in Paris recently discussing a draft of this plan.

Meanwhile, efforts are continuing here and in London on a way to break the German rearmament deadlock. French sources indicate favor for a proposed compromise limiting German units to regimental combat teams, with between 4,000 and 5,000 men each. Such a strength compares with 18,000 to 20,000 men in a division.

SMU, Texas, Aggies Win Weekend Nod

By CARL BELL

Little Rock, Nov. 16 — (AP) — With a football forecasting accuracy rating which has slipped to 70 per cent, we have two consolation.

One is that the season is about over, so this back-siding can't come much longer. The other is that our winning record is better than that of most coaches.

Anyway, we've been right on 326, wrong on 97 and have drawn ties 15 times. And we're hoping to add a few rights with these:

SMU over Arkansas — still looking for the Razorbacks to upset somebody big, but it's hard to see them doing it even at their best against Fred Benner, Kyle R. to Benny White & Co.

Texas over TCU — The Longhorns have enough manpower to avoid a letdown, and the Frogs' No. 1 tailback, Gil Bartosh, still is all right.

Texas Aggies over Rice — Can't see how the Owls can possibly stop Bob Smith and the other Aggie bonecrushers, though stranger things have happened.

Little Rock JC over Ark. Tech — Everybody seems to be whipping Tech now and the Trojans want that AIC title they can win in this one.

Here's warning, however, that the Techsters, champs for five straight years, are going to tire of losing and pour it on somebody sooner or later.

State Teachers over Northeast Okla. — The Bears have had two weeks to get their ground power ready.

Arkansas AM U M over Ozarks — The Boll Weevils David Anderson has become the most feared all-around offensive threat in the AIC, and with good reason.

Henderson over Ark. State — Really how good are the Reddies? Good enough with Ralph Brooks and Jim Etheridge making the single wing better than state's T.

Magnolia A & M over Ark. college — Those Mulderiders are riding high nowadays. Arkansas college is the AIC doormat.

Ouachita over Poteau JC — The Tigers break the monotony of losing.

Hendrix over Bethel — In mapping a short schedule, Coach Ivan Grove said his warriors would play only teams in their own class.

They're doing a good job at it, too. Little Rock High over No man, Okla. — We don't know anything about the Oklahomans, but we know the Tigers are mighty hot. A let-down after walloping Pine Bluff is convention that they were a 'campaign of character assassination.' Mr. Hazen then stipulated that he realized that an overwhelming proportion of AP copy was objective and impartial and that most of the AP workers were 'actively loyal to the AP ideal of objectivity.' Nevertheless, even though the material which he believed to be slanted was the work of only a few persons, serious damage could be wrought by such treatment. He requested a study of the relationship between the Guild and the AP news report. Only 160 of the 1,700 AP papers were affiliated with the Guild.

He then noted an evil which has been notorious within the newspaper industry, but rarely, if ever, has been mentioned outside the family circle. This is the culpable timidity of newspapers which are fearful of the displeasure of the Guild 'bargainers' when their contracts are up for renewal.

This wrath might cost them a great deal of money in wage increases or in losses due to strikes. Last summer, the New York World-Telegram and Sun was closed for three months by severance between the Guild and several unions of the mechanical trades which had contract obligations not to strike or honor the Guild's picket line. These other unions let up the fiction that the Guild pickets were savage goons who would kill or maim printers attempting to go through their line. No new to go through their line. No new to go through their line. No new to go through their line.

Mr. Hazen examined many individual clippings and, in some cases, compared the AP's treatment with that revealed in the reports of other journalists to the disadvantage of the AP.

His opening case concerned the AP's handling of Senator Joe McCarthy's detailed statement last in which communism and Communist activity are mentioned, the reader may think I am trying to prove that the AP is pro-Communist or was during the period of my study. This is not the case.

By chance, the top political issue during the period of my study was the McCarthy case. Consequently, a story appearing to be pro-Communist might merely have been pro-Truth. It could have been just a matter of fact. The newspaper guild with which many AP employees are affiliated, the guild is part of the CIO, which is a labor union.

Mr. Hazen wrote that the AP's treatment of the story was "flagrant suppression" and an indication that the AP had adopted an anti-McCarthy policy, which was obvious in many stories relating to the McCarthy charges in the months that followed. He further reported "throughout my survey I have found the Washington AP unenthusiastic in its handling of anti-Communist news."

The charges, the rebuttal and the debate, inadequate though it may seem, will be made available by the AP after the editors' meeting.

Kimbrough to See Smith in Action

College Station, Tex., Nov. 15 — (AP) — John Kimbrough, Texas A. and M.'s greatest football player — at least until now — will be here Saturday to watch the fellow many say will succeed him in the annals of Aggieland.

Jarrin' John, All-America in 1939 and 1940 and the model all Aggies seek to emulate, will be looking over one Bob Smith, the man who has led A. and M. from oblivion into the bright light.

Smith, who already has gained more yards with the ball than any back in Southwest conference memory, will be rolling against Rice in the next to last game of the season, barring a bowl bid.

His performance last week brought him into the national eye against Southern Methodist. He brought him into the national eye but Smith has been a great player ever since he put on the mole skins at A. and M.

Against Southern Methodist Smith romped to 297 yards in 29 carries. He ran 74 yards for one touchdown and 72 for another. The last one was what beat Southern Methodist 25-20.

For the season Smith has gained 1,124 yards in 151 tries. And he's tougher the opposition the better he has gone. For instance he made 111 against Oklahoma. He romped for 101 against Baylor although playing only part of the game. He clouted Texas Christian for 140.

Today A Year Ago — The St. Louis Browns retained Zack Taylor as manager for the 1950 season.

Five Years Ago — Ray Mack, second baseman of the Cleveland Indians, was discharged from the army.

Ten Years Ago — Michigan downed Northwestern, 20-13, as Tommy Harmon scored his 30th touchdown before 76,749 fans.

Fifteen Years Ago — Notre Dame scored in the last six seconds to tie Army, 6-6, before 80,000 at Yankee stadium.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Nov. 16 — (AP) — The United States Golf association still is worried about players who waste too much time studying shots and lining up putts in championship tournaments. That seems singularly unnecessary at this time, when northern golfers can take all winter if they like and the guys vacationing in the south and west aren't in a hurry about anything. Still there are some interesting figures on putting compiled for the U. S. G. A. Journal by Runcie Martin, who clocked a lot of the lads in the 1950 amateur championship. This was recorded from 17 seconds, from the time the golfer addressed the ball until he stroked the putt, up to 168 seconds, which was how long Frank Stranahan took to miss his final putt. The average was slightly over 40 seconds per putt. In one match, which required four hours, 11 minutes for 17 holes, almost 37 minutes were devoted to lining up putts. Gent to come up with the idea Christmas present for a golfer's wife to give the old man — a combination stop watch and alarm clock, with a special gong that means "get the heck out of that locker room, you bum, and try to be on time for dinner just once."

Connie Do It? Oklahoma U. Publicist Harold Keith claims the reason why Billy Vessels is running so nimbly for the O. U. football team is that he's trying to keep up with Connie, his 16-year-old kid brother. Connie, a soph halfback at Cleveland, Okla., high school, has averaged three touchdowns a game, a mark Billy hasn't reached yet.

One-minute Sports Page Word from France is that Robert Villmain has ballooned to 168 pounds and is worried about making the 160-pound middleweight limit. The Rangers have hired Doc Tracy, who couldn't hypnotize the St. Louis Browns into thinking they could win, to try the same stunt on hockey players. Gosh, Connie Smythe and Art Ross have been hypnotizing the Rangers for years, every time they wanted to make a player trade. The Southwest conference rule limiting scouts to one game has Baylor George Sauer in a tizzy. With Saturday off, he'd like to watch some football but doesn't want to pull his regular scouts off the teams they've been following. The Kansas State varsity-freshman basketball game next Monday has been designated as a "memorial" to likely, however.

Fort Smith over Springfield — Long shots on the Grizzlies have been paying off.

El Dorado over Texarkana — No choice here.

Pine Bluff over Subiaco — The Zebras have absorbed their licking of the year, and it was bad enough for a full year. They'll want to redeem themselves.

Hot Springs over Forrest City — The Trojans can't win within the Big Six but do pretty well outside it.

North Little Rock over Jonesboro — Ditto for the Northsiders.

Others — Horatio over Foreman, Rison over strong, Springfield over Siloam Springs, Van Buren over Helena, Harrison over Bentonville, Fayetteville over Huntsville, Para Gould over Bald Knob, Pocatosh over Batesville, McCrory over Wynne, Conway over Searcy, Osceola over Piggott, Wilson over Burdette, West Memphis over Marianna, Camden over Fordyce, Nashville over Arkadelphia, Russellville over Stuttgart, Booneville over Danville, Clarksville over Greenwood, Waldron over Mena, Atkins over Dardanelle, Malvern over Benton, Stamps over Clinton, Catholic High over Morrilton, Lakeside over Magnet Cove, Magnolia over Prescott, Hope over Smackover, DeQueen over Gordon, Crossett over Eudora, Dermott over Hamburg, Monticello over Dumas, Lake Village over Warren.

Believe UN Forces Need Winter Clothes

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (AP)—Are American troops warmly enough clothed in bitterly cold North Korea?

No, emphatically say a marine corps officer and war correspondents.

"If we don't get something up there," complained a marine officer just returned from the rugged mountain country, "there is a good chance that those boys will get their heads punched in."

Yes, clothing is adequate for needs, the army's supply chief in Tokyo, Brig. Gen. K. L. Hastings, says conditionally.

"Faced with threats of trench-foot and frostbite, two enemies sometimes more dangerous than bullets, the U. S. quartermaster anticipated problems early enough to get to the fighting fronts the necessities with which to combat sloppy snow, deep mud and freezing temperatures," said Hastings.

"X x x winter clothing was stock-piled early in Korea in sufficient quantity to equip all U. N. units. . . As in all pursuits, the troops outran their supply lines with resulting difficulty in providing food, ammunition and fuel as well as clothing."

In spite of this situation, the Eighth army has been and is issuing to advance units, winter clothing as rapidly as the logistic situation permits and the season requires.

The 10th corps, which the quartermaster says has "been fully equipped with suitable cold weather clothing" is fighting on the northwest front.

Frontline dispatches the past few days have stressed that many troops are fighting Arctic battles in summer clothing. Ice, snow and chill winds whistling through mountain passes from the bleak Manchurian plains outrun supply lines, dispatches said.

The marine officer, who insisted that his name be withheld, said there were not enough parkas, mittens, woolen underwear and shoe-pacs (lined galoshes) to go around. The First Marine division, in the 10th corps, is fighting in the northeast and north-central sectors.

"They keep telling us the clothing will be along, but I would say only about half the boys have it as of now," he said.

Marines who have been issued winter underclothing have only a single suit, the officer said, adding:

"You know how it is in the field. If you get a chance you like to put on clean clothing sometimes. Well, its no fun standing on one leg in front of a fire waiting for you only pair of socks or your underwear to dry after you have washed it."

The quartermaster's statement said combat troops are not issued extra clothing that cannot be worn at the time "as this would impose an unacceptable burden."

Reporting from the Eighth army front in northwest Korea Monday, AP Correspondent Don Whitehead said "there are more men in thin cotton garments than in woollens."

"This (winter) equipment may have been distributed to some units but I have yet to see a soldier with all of it and the days and nights are growing colder."

He reported that some officers said privately that winter clothes and equipment were slow in reaching the front because of a belief three weeks ago that the end of the war was at hand.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert, also on the northwest front, reported Tuesday that the breath of soldiers stands out like plumes in the frigid air, but the GIs do not have adequate clothing.

However, said Lambert, more is arriving daily.

Fear of Russia
Made Better
Military Unity

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Nov. 16. —(AP)—Fear of Russia has pushed the West closer toward military unity than anything in peacetime history. During the war Russia and the West were a big family fighting Hitler.

And in 1942 Britain signed a 20-year military alliance with Russia against any aggression by Germany or her allies. In 1944 France signed a 20-year military alliance with the Soviets, too.

But this warm family feeling suffered a chill after the war. The West began to fear the size of Russia's armies, still intact, and her intentions.

This fear was large-size by 1947. The following dates and facts will show the fear, as it grew, has drawn Western Europe, and even the United States, toward military unity.

On March 4, 1947 Britain and France signed a 50-year military alliance between themselves, the so-called treaty of Dunkerque.

One year later — on March 17, 1948 — Britain, France, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg signed a 50-year military alliance. This treaty, signed in Brussels, has been called the Brussels pact and Western union.

The United States had encouraged this five-nation military alliance. Already it had set up the Marshall plan for helping economically those five Western nations and others.

President Truman praised the alliance and promised American help to the five in their steps for self-defense. And on June 11, 1948 the U. S. senate approved a resolution offered by Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican.

This resolution suggested the U. S. join such an arrangement for defense. And in the following July, 1948, this country began talks with the five Brussels treaty nations.

This led to the North Atlantic alliance which was signed on April 4, 1949 by these 12 nations: U. S., Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg, Iceland, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Italy.

So the two-country military alliance which began between Britain and France in March 1947, then spread to a five-country alliance by March, 1948, had become a 12-nation alliance by April, 1949.

The signers of the North Atlantic pact promised to go to one another's help if any of them is attacked. But such an agreement, unless the 12 nations could arm themselves to resist a tie-up, would have little practical meaning.

Congress voted money for arms aid for the U. S. allies. This will run into billions but, in voting the money, congress insisted that the Atlantic pact countries must work out a unified plan for defense.

The pact signers started work on that. Then the Korean fighting began in June, 1950. It showed what poor shape the U. S. was in for any sudden war with Russia. That started the big defense program.

In mid-September, 1950 the foreign ministers of the 12 pact-signers — including Secretary of State Acheson — met in New York.

Acheson suggested the Atlantic pact countries immediately begin building their defenses. And he said use of German manpower — from the West German republic, which was the allies' blessing — is essential. Which means:

Creating some German military units and incorporating them in the Western European defense force.

And Acheson proposed a single, unified force in Europe, including Americans and German units — the Americans might supply as many as eight or 10 divisions — under a single commander.

This, in short, suggested creation of an international army in Europe. Although France balked at the idea of arming or training Germans, the 12 foreign ministers approved the idea of a unified, or international, army.

Almost immediately the defense ministers of the 12 Atlantic pact countries were sent to Washington to make the plans for this unified force, which might be as large as 80 divisions.

This problem hasn't yet been settled, since the French and the other nations so far haven't agreed on how to use German troops. Acheson has tried to soften French worries by assuring them German troops in an international army wouldn't mean a German army.

New Highway
Between Little Rock,
Benton Planned

Little Rock, Nov. 15. —(AP)—Governor McMath said today that the contract for a new highway between Little Rock and Benton probably will be let next July.

He said right-of-way for the proposed new four-lane thoroughfare is now being purchased and that he would recommend construction be the first item in the new fiscal year beginning next July 1.

First construction of the new route of highways 67-70 between Little Rock and Benton will be only a two-lane road, but right-of-way for an eventual four-lane strip is being purchased.

The governor said the new road would cost about $100,000 a mile to build, exclusive of right-of-way cost.

Sir Walter Raleigh's entire 12,000 acre estate was sold to the Irish Statesman, Richard Boyle, for 1000 pounds, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

can't be wrong!

We believe that something has happened in 1950 that you should take to heart.

Ever since this year's Buicks were introduced, their big bulge in sales has come from people who traded other makes of cars for this bounteous beauty.

The total is more than 200,000.

That's 200,000 "freshmen" added to the roll call of Buick owners—200,000 people who must have sized up the current version of the cars they owned, and decided that Buick offered more thrill, more comfort, more satisfaction for the money.

Beyond that, of course, there were other hundreds of thousands who already owned a Buick and bought a new one this year. But we're speaking here of new owners only.

We can name many reasons for this landslide—including Fireball power—an incomparable ride—and Dynaflow Drive.*

We can remind you that the Buick SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER just about blanket the range of a car-owner's aspirations—matching prices with many sixes in the lower brackets—matching distinction with the finest in the fine-car field.

We might add that Buick prices are doubly attractive—since their list prices include many features customarily on the "extra" list.

But why try to spell out all the reasons Buick wins in a showdown? The proof of the pudding is in this great car itself. Better come in—look it over—and find out what an unbeatable buy it is.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Economic Shock Felt by Business

By RADER WINGET
(For Sam Dawson)

New York, Nov. 15 — (AP) — New York business is feeling the economic shock of the war, according to a survey by the National Bureau of Economic Research.

The effect of the cutback in civilian production to permit expansion of armament output is going beyond those industries immediately affected by government regulation.

It is extending to secondary businesses that have no direct connection with the war.

The impact fundamentally comes from the dislocation of the labor market brought on by temporary local unemployment in the midst of the most acute labor shortage since the last war.

The latest count shows employment of 61,074,000 in October, the highest on record for that month. Unemployment dropped to 1,940,000, the lowest in two years.

Everybody connected with war production is demanding more workers, and the military establishment itself is taking men as fast as they can be trained. The military has called 250,000 men since June.

Nevertheless, further temporary unemployment and serious dislocation of the labor market is forecast as the economy changes its hue from civilian to military.

Spokesmen for organized labor are worried. Retailers wonder what their sales pattern will be like after Christmas.

The announced government aim to speed up military activity enough to take up immediately all slack caused by a letdown in ci-

Chongchun River Front, North Korea, Nov. 14 — (Delayed) — (AP) — American forces battling bitter cold temperatures moved forward small distances today against scattered but stubborn enemy resistance.

Elements of the Second Division pushed one unit across the Chongchun river for the first time and captured almost uneventfully a hill northeast of Kunu which for the past two days had spewed deadly mortar fire at shivering Doughboys and caused fairly heavy casualties.

To the west First Cavalry troops commanded by Lt. Col. Harold K. Johnson of Wellesley, Mass., moved north against what Johnson vain activity

But William H. Harrison, administrator of the national production authority, admits some unemployment will result from the 35 per cent cut in civilian aluminum supplies.

There, basically, it is a case of how long it takes a worker to stop making pots and pans for housewives and start making mess kits for soldiers.

With cutbacks in other strategic metals impending, there will be unemployment in industries using those metals until they or others can get geared for military production.

In automobiles a 25 per cent cut in passenger car output is predicted for Jan. 1. There will be layoffs. And here again, so to speak, it is a case of how long a worker has to wait after he stops making civilian jeeps before he starts making military jeeps.

called scattered resistance.

On Johnson's left flank cavalrymen commanded by Lt. Col. Willis (Wild Bill) Harris of San Antonio, Tex., entered the ancient walled city of Yongbyon and found it narrow twisting streets empty of Reds. Both second division and first cavalry division elements captured a handful of enemy prisoners Tuesday. All are North Koreans who told interrogators their Chinese comrades in arms had departed a few hours earlier.

The Chinese left traces of their stay. Americans found more Chinese soldier packs on the hill occupied today, indicating a quick withdrawal had been made.

The American advances followed the pattern of the past few days—cautious, measured thrusts with much more attention to flanks and possible enemy positions than was evidence two weeks ago when U.N. forces were racing for the Yalu river border of Manchuria and Korea.

The Americans today remind you somewhat of a good boxer who thought he had a fight in the bag, took a couple of stiff wallop from his opponent and suddenly decided to be a little more careful.

Like the boxer, the U. S. forces are puzzled thus far the Chinese Communists who ripped up a sizable force of the Eighth Cavalry regiment have not contested in any of the recent American moves.

The enemy, Korean or Chinese, has been defense-minded entirely in the past few days in American sectors. There have been no counterattacks worthy of the name.

There have been plenty of strategic ground. Capt. Harris trenches and emplacements on strategic ground. Capt. Harris Pope, a second division battalion operations officer from Jackson, Ga., says, "I have never seen anything like them."

But the enemy is not staying in these trenches and emplacements to the last minute or last man.

A first cavalry company commanded by Capt. Carl W. Kueffer Milwaukee, Wis., was jolted recently but moved ahead Monday without opposition.

The defense attitude of the enemy is underscored further by construction of tank traps — which have proved ineffective — and the planting of some mines.

Frontline officers suspect the tank traps, mines and defense positions indicate the Reds met recently are outmost for a stronger defense line farther north.

Meanwhile, the suddenly wintry weather — the temperature dropped to six above zero today and small rivers and ponds were a film of mud covered ice — is making the fighting more miserable and disagreeable than ever.

Many soldiers here, whose breath stands out like plumes, still do not have sufficient winter clothing. But more is arriving daily.

The cold is bad enough on the combat soldiers bundled and swathed in every stitch of clothing they can lay their hands on. It is especially bitter on drivers wheeling jeeps with messes or trucks with supplies over the cold and blindingly dusty roads.

ANCIENT LINEAGE

The pearly, or chambered, nautilus is the only living species of a long line of fossil forms of mollusks that reaches back at least 500,000,000 years.

WELL DECORATED

More than 10,000 figures were carved or painted on the north and south porches of the Chartres cathedral, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.
